PHILADELPHIA :

PRESS OF HALLOWELL & CO., 125 SOUTH THIRD STREET.

1882.

REPORT.

Twenty-Ninth Annual Report of the Directors of the American Academy of Music to the Stockholders, June 5th, 1882.

The Treasurer's Report, which accompanies this will exhibit the receipts and expenditures for the past fiscal year, ending April 30th, 1882, as follows, to wit :

RECEIPTS.

Renting of the building, - - - - -	$31,675 00
Ground rent collected, - - - - -	671 06
Interest received, - - - - -	480 57
Total, - - - - -	$32,826 63

EXPENDITURES.

Amount paid for gas, fuel, salaries, wages, water rent, taxes, license and other expenses, - - -	$18,489 12
Insurance on property, - - -	3,997 81
Alterations, improvements and repairs, - - - - -	5,560 67
Scenic department, - - - - -	703 63
Interest dividends on Preferred stock, - - - - -	950 00
	$29,701 23
Excess of receipts for the year, - - - - -	$3,125 40

The high price of the stock during the year prevented the purchase and cancellation of any by the Directors under the terms of the law giving them authority to do so; and it increased the amount of taxes paid by the Academy to the State.

During the year the number of representations at the Academy was 158, including 100 of Opera, Drama, and Concerts, to which Stockholders had a right of admission.

The Opera engagements secured the appearance of the most distinguished Lyric Artists Madame Patti, Madame Gerster, Miss Kellogg and others of note, with the well organized Italian Opera Troupes of Mr. Mapleson and Mr. Strakosch. For the next season these managers have again taken the Academy, and it is expected that there will be much entertainment of a superior character. It is very desirable that some arrangement may be perfected to increase the representations of first-class opera at the Academy as the ordinary support given does not enable managers of such expensive performances to remain long in our city. If by such means the performances could be on alternate nights, any neighboring city sharing the time with us, the seasons would be longer, less exacting, and more remunerative to the Managers.

In furtherance of the views of all interested in the Academy, the Directors have not hesitated to expend what is requisite to maintain the building in complete condition, and especially have they aimed to secure protection from the danger of fire. The warning of the last year has not been disregarded. The south side of the building has been fitted with iron doors and shutters; the cupola and air shafts encased with iron, which, with the metal roof newly painted, and the cornices will shield the property from outside attack. In addition to the usual appliances of pumps and plugs with steam connections, hand-engine, &c., new improved fire extinguishers have been placed, as well as hose of superior kind instead of the older sections and other arrangements made for inside service.

On all important occasions watchmen are stationed on the stage and on each floor of the auditorium to attend to the opening of all exit passages and to direct the audience to the several stairways, and for the general protection of the house and the audience. It is intended that the confidence of the public in regard to safety and comfort in the Academy of Music shall be justified and maintained.

After so long a period of active use the Auditorium needs renovation, and it is contemplated to re-decorate it; the time has arrived when this should be done in such style as will accord with the architecture and purposes of the building. For this purpose a contract has been made with a distinguished artist, whose work it is believed will gratify the Stockholders and exhibit the house to the greatest advantage. Other improvements required in the interior will receive attention, and it is gratifying to know that everything done will be without incurring debt, for without the means of payment on hand the expenditure would not be ordered. This is the fixed, as it has been the protective policy of the institution to adhere to which insures safety and permanency.

The officers and employes of the Institution have been assiduous and attentive to their duties and have greatly contributed to its successful maintenance during the past year.

HENRY M. PHILLIPS, President.

June 5th, 1882.

From the New York Sun, Dec. 1902. The story ran through several issues, covers 14 chapters, about 35 newspaper columns. It has never been reprinted. With it is a long autograph letter signed by Arnold referring to the story, complaining of unauthorized changes by the editor, and bitterly arraighing the government for allowing public clamor to influence his trial. A very interesting letter. There is also an unmounted photo of Arnold from a life negative, and a newspaper clipping announcing his death in 1906. This material mounted and bound would make a unique and valuable Lincoln item.
